Agricultural Short Course.

Hogmen and poultry producers will be interested in knowing that arrangements have been completed for the holding of an Agricultural Short Course in Stony Plain. The Course has been arranged by the Hon. F. S. Grisdale, Minister of Agriculture, and will be held on Tuesday, March 19th, commencing at 2 p.m.

The first subject for discussion will be "Poultry," when an address will be given by G. M. Cormie, the Provincial Poultry Commissioner.

Another subject for discussion will be "Production and Marketing of Bacon Hogs," S. G. Carlyle, the Livestock Commissioner, and a representative from the University will be heard on this subject.

This will be a splendid opportunity for local farmers to get reliable pointers on their particular lines, from well-known authorities.

Growing in Popularity.

Mr J. H. McLaughlin, agent for the Elephant Brand Fertilizer, reports an ever increasing demand by farmers in his territory for this aid to good farming and big crops. He has already on order, this season, some seven carloads of the fertilizer from the production plant at Trail. He unloaded a car at Spruce Grove last week, and one for farmers in Duffield district also. As the special offer expires at the end of the month, farmers wishing to contract a supply for this season should get their order in at once. Call or write, J. H. McLaughlin, Spruce Grove.

Service by Rev. R. E. York.

An evangelistic musical program was given on Sunday afternoon last at the Muir Lake Community Hall under the auspices of the Alberta Baptist Bible Academy, with Rev. R. E. York, B.A., B.D., D.D., in charge. The program consisted of vocal solos, piano solos, ladies' quartet, a trio, and a choral sketch by Prof. Christiansen. The entertainment was appreciated by the large crowd which attended.

Poultry Producers Didn't Vote

Approximately 50 p.c. of the poultry producers did not bother to cast their vote on the Alberta Poultry Marketing Plan; but it is expected the returns will show a slight majority in favor of the Plan.

The result in Saskatchewan is said to be similar to that in Alberta.

In Manitoba, where a heavy vote was cast, opponents of the Plan are confident the proposed scheme has been defeated by a big majority.

German pictures still retain their popularity, and draw a good crowd when shown in Stony Plain. The four films produced at the movie house Saturday Eve. were no exception. The film "Day of National Work" came in for much applause, as also did "Spring Time in the Black Forest" and "Thanksgiving Day." These pictures are of a highly educational nature to the Canadian youth, and are prized by those who have come from the places depicted in the pictures.

University Of Alberta Develops A New Variety Of Wheat Said To Be Drouth Resistant

An Alberta product developed at the University of Alberta, a new variety of wheat, called "Canus", is being tested this year when it is planted in field areas in the province's drouth districts of the south.

A cross between the famous Canadian Marquis wheat and Kanred, an equally famed grain in the United States winter wheat belt, the new variety, originated by Dr. O. S. Aamodt, professor of genetics and plant breeding at the University of Alberta, has been named "Canus", a derivation of the two nations—Canada and the United States.

A bearded variety, a heritage from the winter wheat of old ancestry, the new grain is reported to be drouth resistant and to give a higher yield than Marquis.

In tests conducted by the Dominion department of agriculture and the research council of Canada, "Canus" showed an average yield of 32.4 bushels to the acre.

Here are some of the attributes of the newly-developed wheat:

Resistance to drouth, foot rot and bunt, two wheat diseases which have taken heavy toll in the west;

Good stiffness and baking qualities. Dr. Aamodt says wheat has one of its advantages. It is not resistant to rust, but this not a serious problem in this province as rust is seldom a menace to Alberta producers.

A report, issued to its members by the Alberta wheat pool, says:

"The probability is that the new grain will ultimately supplant Marquis over a considerable area of the plains region of western Canada. It will not invade areas where early ripening is required as it takes about the same time to reach maturity as does Marquis."

Ten bushels of the newly-developed Canus wheat will be distributed among farmers of central and southern Alberta this year, according to Dr. O. S. Aamodt, University of Alberta, originator of Canus. It will be the first time the wheat, on which Dr. Aamodt has worked 15 years has been given to farmers for seed.

Dr. Aamodt does not claim remarkable drouth-resisting strength for his new grain. It is mainly useful in its strength against smut and foot rot, he declares. The national research council, Ottawa, financed his experiments.

Another high grade wheat, said to be equal in quality to Reward and with possibly greater yield and having strong drouth resistance, is in the process of development by Dr. Aamodt and may be available in five years.

Origins Of Canadian Oats

Leading Varieties All Came From Outside The Dominion

The leading varieties of oats in Canada, unlike Canadian wheat, have all originated outside the Dominion, although certain Canadian varieties are gradually advancing to the premier positions. At the present time the most outstanding varieties of oats grown in Canada are Banner, Alaska, and Gopher, two of which have come from the United States and Victory which was introduced from Sweden. Among other varieties is Legacy, a new promising origin of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, which has done particularly well in Northern Saskatchewan, Central and Northern Alberta, and in the Eastern Townships of Quebec. Cartier, a production of Macdonald College, Quebec, may eventually replace Alaska in Quebec province as the standard early oat for Eastern Canada, while reports over a period of years show that O.A.C. 12 and O.A.C. 144, from the Ontario Agricultural College, yield well, the former on the lighter and the latter on the heavier soils of Southwestern Ontario. Of other varieties, Anthony was introduced into Manitoba from a period of years in 1907; Gold Rain, of Swedish origin, does well in Eastern Canada, and White Cross, another from the United States, appears to be best adapted to Northern Alberta conditions.

Great Aqueduct Is Now Nearing Completion In Italy

Italy's giant new Apulian Aqueduct, which will supply 202 towns and villages with water, is nearing completion after 20 years of work.

The main conduit will be one of the largest water conveyers in the world, and its length, with branches, will total 920 miles. Already 193 towns and villages are receiving supplies.

Each of the 2,500,000 inhabitants served by the aqueduct will have an average supply of 18 gallons a day. These people have hitherto had to rely on rainfall for supplies, there being a total absence of underground springs.

Signor Mussolini's government is thus completing a work which was first conceived by Julius Caesar, who also attempted the reclamation of the Pontine Marshes, in which two new towns have been built.

The main conduit of the Apulian Aqueduct is 123 miles long, and of this length 67 miles passes through tunnels. The reservoirs will total 155, of which 118 have already been completed and seven are now under construction. There will be 27 pumping stations, of which 23 are completed.

The cost of the aqueduct is estimated at about £11,150,000.

International Trade Fighting Its Way Through A Maze Of Tariffs, Quotas And Exchange

Based On Measurements

Explanation Of Why Sun's Rays Matter In Winter

The sun's rays reaching the earth are hotter in the winter than in the summer, if measurements in both seasons are made at the same altitude of the sun, according to Dr. Bernard Haurwitz, research associate at the Blue Hill Meteorological Observatory, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Winter is a cold period, not because the sun's rays are cooler, but because there are so many fewer hours of sunlight in winter than in summer, and because the rays strike the earth at a lower angle on the average.

The fact that the sun's rays are hotter in winter is due to several causes, Dr. Haurwitz found. One is that the earth is nearer the sun at this season. Another is that water vapor is much less, which is important because water vapor absorbs a good deal of solar radiation. The third factor is that winter air is much clearer than summer air, and that dust in the summer air cuts off more of the sun's heat.

Little Mildred was poking at something in the grass. Suddenly she said:

Mildred—"Oh, Mother dear, here is a little green snake."

Woman (very cautious)—"Keep away from it, darling. It might be as dangerous as a ripe one."

Gradually somewhat weary, international trade is fighting its way through a world mass of skyscraper tariffs, quotas and exchange controls. British returns indicate that an ebbing tide has again begun to flow.

Progress is steady if slow. "The British trader," says the annual report of the London Steamship Owners' Association, "continues to be hampered over wide areas of the world by political disturbances, by currency and exchange difficulties and by quotas, tariffs and other restrictions on trading."

A glance over the European scene reveals a curious picture.

While Premier Pierre Flaminio of France talks of the need for free trade, countries of central Europe strengthen their exchange controls. Networks of trading agreements endeavor to beat past deals in the structure.

Old-time barter has returned. Germany is building locomotives against saltpeter from Chili. Soviet naphtha is bartered for Australian mutton. Spanish oranges and wine go for Irish eggs.

Convention signs are under construction in German yards for barter, some for whale oil. French railway stock has gone for Roumanian oil; Hungarian railcars for Egyptian cotton; Swiss cheese for Russian petrol.

Lithuanian geese are reported to have been offered for locomotives for Czechoslovakia. Live pigs were traded for a Polish automobile. Paris artists are selling pictures for values in kind.

The luckless traveller, as he traverses a constantly changing scene of currency controls, is never quite sure whether too many pounds, pence, marks or francs are not going to land him in jail.

Prince Has Keen Hearing

Beast Trained Men In Identifying Sounds From Trick Records

That the appearance of gray hair at his temples followed by the adoption of horn-rimmed spectacles, naturally, as was recently said in a London dispatch, makes the Prince of Wales look older. It has just been discovered, however, that his hearing is still abnormal. The other day they induced him to go down to a photograph factory at Hayes, Middlesex, where a competition was being held to "read" the sounds given forth from trick records. The competitors were men trained to the identification of London trains. He missed only one. "That is a waterfowl," exclaimed the Prince after hearing one record. "Well, it wasn't a bad shot," he said, laughing, when told that it was a glass of water being poured out.

Early-Ripening Wheat

New Type Has Been Developed At Kansas State Agricultural College

A new type of wheat has been developed at Kansas State Agricultural College, and cereal chemists met at Kansas City to discuss what to do about it.

The question is whether the new grain shall be released for commercial production.

It has been named "Quivira" after the legendary city which drew Coronado across the Kansas plains in search of gold.

An early-ripening type of hard winter wheat, it was produced by crossing Prelue, a spring wheat of the north, with Kanred, hard winter wheat now used widely in the southwest.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD BIRTHDAY PICTURES

It's never too early to start taking pictures of the babies and in later years they will prove to be one of your priceless possessions.

Too many parents look upon their children's birthday anniversaries only as a time to give them a party or a present. No one will argue against that: angle of birthday celebrations. Birthday parties and gifts were in vogue long before our time on this earth and will continue long after our demise, but there can be another feature of the celebration from which both parents and children will get long-time enjoyment, to wit: the birthday snapshot.

Suppose you are to be parents of one of the quarter of a million babies to be born in Canada this year. It won't be easy to remember exactly how that baby looked ten years from now, but a few snapshots will keep the likeness for you. True, if you are the father, you are lucky in those prophylactic times, to be permitted to see your newly-born heir for several days after Sir Stork has delivered his package, unless through the heavy glass of a well guarded window or door. But when the nurses and doctors finally concede that you are not a common carrier of encephalitis lethargica or what other germs you are supposed to have, you should exercise your authority. Tell them you are determined to shoot the baby, then laugh lightly, and walk in with your camera.

Every month is usually considered a birthday in a baby's life until he is a year old. At least a picture a month should be made of the new boarder for the first year. You will be surprised and delighted in seeing the changes which the pictures record. After that one of you should take the camera in his hands and you can never tell when your baby is going to take his first cautious, faltering step, and what an event in your life, even if it means nothing to the baby just yet. The baby is quite matter-of-fact about this adventure, but you get all excited, let out a couple of whoops, gasp, laugh and probably scare the infant so thoroughly that he falls down and has to do it all over again. The chances are that you will not be prepared for that first snap, or if you should happen to be holding the camera in your hand you will, in your excitement, probably have it turned the wrong direction and get an out-of-focus picture of your mid-section. But don't miss this moment of moments the next time. Have your camera and yourself ready for action.

There never seems to be enough of these baby pictures to go around, for there are grandmothers, aunts, cousins and friends in distant cities who are always looking forward to receiving a snapshot of the newly arrived commander of the "infantry."

There's always the "first time" for everything and this applies to thousands of events in a baby's life. There is the first time he discovers he has toes, and immediately decides in his own little mind that they are something good to eat. His first smile, and then that great moment when he reaches out with his chubby little arms and says, "Baba," which is at once interpreted by the parents to mean "Daddy" or "Mommy," sometimes depending on who is governor of the household.

Volumes could be written about baby pictures but space is limited here. Whatever you do, however, don't forget that snapshots of the kiddies are important right now and in later years they will prove to be one of your priceless possessions when your children become mothers and fathers and you are among those known as grandparents.

GET RID OF THE CROWS

(By JACK MINER)

My reason, dear reader, for writing this article is simply to encourage you to take more interest in our great out-of-doors and closer study of the so-called wild creatures that occupy it. Yes, and to ask you to study them closer for yourself, since at the present day there are so many indoor naturalists writing and misleading the public. This is why I am asking all classes of humanity to take a deeper interest. When you are driving, walking, running or flying, keep both eyes open so as to gain more from personal observations, and when you see a crow perched and pecked by smaller birds, stop and ask yourself why? Surely they don't want to eat him. Then, why are they chasing him?

My oldest son lives two miles south of me on a road running east and west, the same as the one I live on. The wild geese that make their home with me at least five months of the year, all go out to Lake Erie to roost, returning about the next morning. Lake Erie is three miles south of my home. When I hear them honking and see them towering high before leaving the sanctuary getting ready to cross over the three miles of no-man's land, I get my son on the telephone. As I may be in two miles south of me between the lake and the sanctuary. He holds the receiver with a watch in his hand and just as a big distinctive flock crosses the road at my house I call "Go." He marks the exact time they go to the road and, of course, can see the geese coming. Here are the results of the last time they were out 28 minutes. Second, with a nice breeze to their favor, lifting them along—two minutes and eleven seconds. Third, as they were facing quite a stiff breeze, four minutes. Remember, these birds are from three to five hundred feet above the ground, they leave the sanctuary, therefore they are not doing climbing after they leave.

Jack Miner in the days of his youth.

Oh, but you sigh and say, "What has all of this to do with Crows?" Nothing at all. I have only unraveled these experiments to encourage you to study for yourself. The first hunting I did in Canada was crow hunting. This was May, 1868. We shot the crows because they pulled up our corn, and from boyhood up, whenever I started to hunt any creature I studied its habits. Soon I found myself practicing how to imitate the call of the creature that was causing the young crow's trouble; I would practice this quivering, cawing and hooting in the early morning, when all was silent, and let the echo from the forest speak for itself as to the perfection of the deception. Then I would call myself in the thick undergrowth of the woods, in easy range of the crows, and I felt sure they would perch on. I would then start giving these low delicate caws of distress, just the same as I heard the young crow utter now and then giving the low hoot of the owl. Many, many of these black, old nest-robbers have brought food or come to protect the wrong baby but, to my surprise, they were not feeding their young on corn. As I held these old miles per hour, or in other words two miles per minute! Say, I am from Missouri and you have got to show me! During the last ten years, I have been privileged to give this question a fair test and, on several occasions, when the wild geese have left my home for Hudson Bay, I have wired ahead of them, I wired to the C.P.R. agents at Strathall, Ontario, and to the C.P.R. agents at Cochrane, Ontario, and in every case I received a reply. If those agents saw the same geese that left here, these birds were making between forty and fifty miles per hour. Another short but accurate test I have been making recently is as follows: My oldest son lives two miles south of me on a road running east and west, the same as the one I live on. The wild geese that make their home with me at least five months of the year, all go out to Lake Erie to roost, returning about the next morning. Lake Erie is three miles south of my home. When People Do Not Have Money To Buy Rich Foods Then Health Is Improved

In days of depression, general health is better than in days of opulence and fine living, several doctors told the House of Commons during a health debate. Dr. J. P. Howden (Lib. Dr. Howden added, that "many people dig their graves with their teeth."

MAKES VIGOROUS DEFENCE AGAINST HIS MANY CRITICS

Doncaster, Yorkshire, Eng.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said here he will resign whenever he feels he can no longer "pull my full weight in the boat."

Defending himself and his National government against its critics, the prime minister said:

"So far as I'm concerned, I hold the position I do at the wish of my colleagues."

"When the moment comes they find my services too dearly bought, or when . . . I myself for one reason or another—and unfortunately there are many—am no longer satisfied that I can pull my full weight in the boat, I shall require nobody's advice to make up my mind what my duty is."

Mr. MacDonald disclosed the government is actively after financial speculators whose scandals, he said, "are besmirching the financial probity of this country and damaging our credit in the eyes of the world."

(The government's opponents in parliament have demanded an investigation of the recent crash of an attempted pool in pepper, which forced three firms to the wall.)

Replying to charges the government has been shielding speculators, Mr. MacDonald said there was no truth in such statements. The government is not shielding anyone, he asserted, "but the government is not going into a panic."

The prime minister also denied former prime minister David Lloyd George's charge that the government had turned down his "new deal."

"Mr. Lloyd George said 'I am going to produce from time to time the plans themselves—actual plans,'" Mr. MacDonald said. "I'm still waiting. Until I see the plan I can neither accept it nor reject it. I certainly have not rejected it yet."

He asserted that the cabinet was willing to look at any plan any man has which offers solution of the unemployment problem.

Relief Standards Urged

Plan Made Public By Canadian Council On Welfare

Ottawa.—Establishment of a federal advisory committee on unemployment relief which would set standards and principles of administration to which provinces would be bound was recommended in a national relief plan made public by the Canadian Council on Child and Family Welfare.

Provinces failing to observe the standards laid down by such a committee would be refused financial assistance from the federal authority. The outline presented by the council described the situation as urgent in view of the fact present agreements expire at the end of March while there were, the statement declared, 1,350,000 persons receiving unemployment relief.

Desire A Peaceful Settlement Of Border Dispute

Home.—Foreign office officials began drafting a response to the protest by Ethiopia against the continued sending of troops and munitions to Italian Somaliland.

The Ethiopian charge d'affaires, Nigraien Yessu, delivered the protest—a letter to the Italian government from Emperor Haile Selassie—that "Italy could retire its last soldier and its last cannon from Italian Somaliland and Eritrea, and Ethiopia would not touch a single stone in these two colonies."

The African emperor's statement also reiterated his desires for a peaceful settlement of the border dispute.

Jurisdiction Ended

Saarbrücken.—League of Nations jurisdiction over the Saar territory ended at 11:30 a.m. Feb. 28, it was announced. Geoffrey G. Knox, president of the governing commission, turned police authority over to Reich representatives.

Imperial Press Conference

Vote Of Thanks Given To Major Asfor Of London Times

Johannesburg.—The fifth Imperial press conference concluded its sittings locally with a vote of thanks to Major J. J. Asfor, chairman of the Times Publishing Company, of London, who acted as chairman. The vote was passed with all delegates standing and applauding Major Asfor for two minutes.

It was stated deliberations were eminently successful. Agreement has been reached on formation of a London committee to co-ordinate the work of the Empire Press Union and to look for lower press cable and wireless rates.

The conference referred to the Empire Press Union for inclusion on the agenda of next year's meeting of the new annual committee in London, a resolution for lower postage rates on British newspapers and periodicals mailed to the Dominions and colonies.

Court Martial Conviction

Captain Of Cruiser Renown Is Tried On Charge Of Negligence

Portsmouth, England.—Capt. H. R. Sawbridge, of the battle cruiser, Renown, was convicted by court martial on a charge of negligence following collision of the Renown with the Hood.

The charge, that he caused to be "hazarded" the two giant war vessels during manoeuvres off the Spanish coast in January, was similar to that on which Rear-Admiral Sidney Bailey, commander of the battle cruiser squadron, was acquitted. The third court martial is yet to be held, the trial of Capt. F. T. B. Tower, of the Hood, on which the rear-admiral's flag flew.

The court ruled that he be dismissed from his ship. The deputy judge advocate announced that the charge had been proved.

Show Big Increase

Savings Deposits $5,000,000 More Than In January 1934

Ottawa.—A decrease of $12,000,000 in bank note circulation at the end of January compared with December and a drop of $5,000,000 in central gold reserve deposits were shown in the monthly report of chartered banks to the department of finance as on Jan. 31, 1935.

Demand deposits were down $45,000,000 from December but $500,000 greater than on the same date last year. Savings deposits increased $3,000,000 the month and $62,000,000 in the year. Call loans in Canada were down $10,000,000 compared with the previous month while current loans were down $18,000,000 from December and $50,000,000 compared with Jan. 31, 1934.

Lepers Killed By Chinese

Brutal Massacre By Villagers To Stamp Out Disease

Hong Kong, China.—The inhabitants of the fishing village of Wai-chow, which is on an island in the delta of the Pearl river, have risen en masse and freed their little island of lepers by carrying out a brutal massacre of the 24 sufferers from the disease who lived nearby.

The lepers did not mingle with the other people on the island but lived in a small settlement of their own. After the massacre, the leper settlement was burned to the ground.

Will Need Canada's Wheat

Toronto.—Britain will continue to need Canadian wheat, notwithstanding recent extensive development of agriculture over there, Sir Francis Ploud, high commissioner for His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom, told members of the Women's Canadian Club here.

Ask Free Text Books

Winnipeg.—The annual convention of the Manitoba School Trustees Association asked the Manitoba government to provide text books free in grades one to six inclusive. Education until the sixth grade was compulsory and text books should be provided, said the resolution adopted by the convention.

Hughes War Resolution

After Warm Discussion Was Withdrawn In The Senate

Ottawa.—Warm discussion of the Hughes war resolution was followed by its withdrawal in the senate by its sponsor.

The resolution proposed, if Canada ever again entered war, she would wage it "with every ounce of her strength in man and material power," and that declaration of war should be followed immediately "by mobilization and conscription of all human power and all the material wealth of the nation."

Disastrous Fire In Moscow

Explosion In Pencil Factory Kills Twenty-Nine Persons

Moscow.—Twenty-nine persons were killed in an explosion and fire which destroyed the Krassin pencil factory on the outskirts of Moscow. The loss of life in the disaster was not disclosed for three days, and after the bodies of the victims were cremated.

The fire started shortly before midnight. All of Moscow's fire apparatus called out to combat the flames battled three hours before they brought the fire under control.

It was announced the factory and warehouse were a complete loss. Part of the workers thrown out of work by the fire had been sent on vacation. Others were absorbed by the Sacco-Vanzetti pencil factory also in Moscow.

The explosion occurred in a high pressure compressor from causes not immediately determined. The blast sent a compressed air tank hurtling one and one-half tons hurtling through two floors of the building and the roof. It crashed into the adjoining warehouse.

To Repulse Air Attacks

Britain Would Utilize Recent Science Inventions

London.—Sir Philip Sassoon, under-secretary for air, announced in the House of Commons a decision to appoint a special committee to investigate the possibilities of countering air attacks by utilizing recent scientific inventions.

He said the decision was reached some months ago and that the committee was composed of Henry Tizard, rector of the Imperial College of Science and Technology, as chairman, Professor A. V. Hill of the Royal Society and P. M. S. Blackett, professor of physics at the University of London.

The committee's report will be presented to the imperial defence committee.

Western States Still Dry In Weather Bureau Report

Washington.—Continuance of dry soil conditions over a large area in the western great plains, foreshadowing a possible return of drought conditions in part of the area devastated last summer, was reported by the United States weather bureau in its weekly weather and crop bulletin.

Severe dust storms were experienced in the western portions of Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and parts of eastern Colorado and eastern Wyoming.

Weather bureau officials said dust storms were occurring much earlier than usual.

SIR JOHN SIMON MAY VISIT RUSSIA TO TALK PEACE

London.—The cabinet at its weekly meeting was understood to have tentatively approved the sending of two of its internationalists to distant European capitals to further the plans for consolidating peace.

While no official statement was forthcoming after the cabinet's session, well-informed political circles said the government had approved plans for Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, to go to Moscow, Warsaw and Praha after they visited Berlin.

Government quarters admitted an informal invitation from Moscow had been well received, and it was expected an official announcement shortly would confirm the report direct contact with Soviet leaders would take place.

Impelling the government to that action was its determination to leave no stone unturned in an effort to bring about an inclusive European settlement which would end tension on all frontiers.

Lack Of Fodder

Minnesota Man Brings Emaciated Animals To State Legislature As Exhibit

St. Paul, Outside Minnesota's state legislature recently stood three emaciated animals—a horse, a cow and a pig—quivering with hunger. The western Minnesota owner said he had been unable to give them any home because of inadequate relief following last summer's burning drought.

Inside the statehouse, the senate, although one of their number specifically denied the "exhibit" had influenced the action, promptly passed a measure to appropriate $50,000 to be administered by the state executive council for livestock feed in western Minnesota drought areas.

The livestock was the property of Arthur Spencer, western Minnesota farmer, who engineered the one man "bony march."

Reform Measures

Economic Advisory Council To Be Set Up

Ottawa.—Legislation to set up an economic advisory council as forecast in the speech from the throne is expected to be the next reform measure Prime Minister R. B. Bennett will introduce in parliament, it was learned here. The bill was practically ready, it was stated, but decision upon the three or more who will make up the personnel of the council had not been reached.

The board will act in the same capacity on matters dealing with economic progress of the Dominion as the national research council acts for scientific problems.

Tourist Traffic Better

Ottawa.—Foreign automobile tourist traffic entering Canada during the past calendar year increased at most points, totalling 3,261,848 automobiles as against 3,066,887 automobiles entered in 1933, a gain of 164,961, according to a statement issued by Hon. R. C. Matthews, minister of national revenue.

Frost Tremors

Toronto.—Eastend residents here thought of earthquakes when houses shook and dishes rattled. Similar shocks occurred a few weeks ago during cold spells. It was explained the ground was not settled in this district because because of various waterworks operations and heavy frosts caused the earth tremors.

Sees Soviet Link

Washington.—Charges of a link between Soviet Russia and the Communist party in the United States were made in the house of representatives as its foreign affairs committee disregarded state department wishes and set a hearing March 18, on the Tinkham resolution for withdrawal of Russian recognition.

These two members of Toronto Chinese Boy Scout Troop were among the 3,000 Scouts taking part in their annual old clothing collection in that city, when 180,000 articles of clothing and thousands of pairs of shoes were gathered for distribution to the needy.

Didn't Like a Silk Hat.

Mr M—was a prominent member of the Elks. At the breakfast table recently he was relating to the wife an incident which occurred the previous night.

The E.R. had offered a silk hat to the brother who could stand up and truthfully say that during his married life he had never kissed any woman but his wife.

"And, would you believe it, Mary, not one stood up," "John," his wife said, "why didn't you stand up?" "Well, I was going to," John replied, "but, Mary, you know I look like hell in a silk hat."

Umpy Wasn't Afraid.

Old Umpy was watching the village shoemaker at work.

"Hide," said the shoemaker; "the cow's outside." "What if it is; I'm not afraid of a cow."

Barber's Dog Liked Tit-bits.

Customer—Your dog seems very fond of watching you cut hair.

Barber—It ain't that; sometimes I snips a bit off a customer's ear; and the dog sure likes the tit-bits.

The Reason Why.

"How is it, my friend," asked the minister, "that you are the only one not to meet his obligations?"

"I run a weekly newspaper," he replied, "and the brethren who stood up all are my subscribers, and—"

"Let us pray," said the minister.

NEW GRAIN BOARD MEETS APPROVAL.

The elimination of the Winnipeg grain exchange thru the operation of the new Canada Grain Board is seen as a possibility. It is believed that the Board's operations will have to be on a cash basis directly with the farmers rather than thru supporting the prices on the exchange.

"The announcement that a grain board will be instituted is very acceptable," remarked Hon F S Grisdale, Alberta Minister of Agriculture, who recalled that there is no grain exchange in Australia. Mr Grisdale intimated further the formation of a grain board should give greater stability to prices in Canada.

"Wait a bit. I've got a better plan than that. . . . Dustin's grin was the grin of a dog who sees the meat that he intends to seize. 'Wait! If I had sprung that on Joe Carr, he'd simply wait till this Gerald Keene, his partner, turns up. Young Keene might have the money. If he has, then old Carr would get out of my clutches. See? Keene would sure help Carr meet that note. He'd sure do it if he ever learns of what we found in that mine and prospect of old man Kane's. I told Carr that if he'll get Edith to agree to marry me, I'll call off the suit about Soda Springs. He can't finance that suit anyhow. See?'"

"I see; you've given your hand away when there was no need to," said Goddard testily.

"Huh. Suppose I've got four good aces in the hole. What then?"

"Show me your 'aces,'" growled Spike.

"Darned if I can see any sign of an ace in this mess."

"All right. I'll show you. Do you happen to remember the date that young Imp of hell, Gerald Keene, the owner of the other half of the Hour-glass, is due here?"

"On the tenth of next month, it said. This is the next month and to-day's the ninth. He's due in Seco tomorrow night, I reckon."

"All right. Now listen to me. . . . Dustin sat forward and tilted his chair on its front legs. . . . 'You and I've been partners for a good many years. That right?'"

Spike Goddard stared at him. Was his partner losing his mind? He studied Dustin for a long three minutes and Dustin grinned quietly at him. Finally.

"We've been stripplin' the Hour-glass of everything it's got for more'n five years," said Spike. "If one of us told what he knows about the other, he'd sure as hell go to jail, I reckon. We've soaked away every dollar we could raise. We've got seventeen thousand in cold cash right now in our office safe. You don't need to have me say it but . . . Make your game. I'm playin' her as she lays."

Dustin nodded complete satisfaction.

"I knew you'd say that," he said. "Now listen. . . . Old Kane located that mine. It's on the Hour-glass, I know that. Kane and Peyoti and I went there. Kane showed me the mine. Then he and Peyoti got into a fight over some water. I wasn't in camp when it happened but I got back to find Kane dead with his head all mashed in and Peyoti in one of his confounded fits after dopin' all up with his stuff. . . ."

"That you give him a," said Spike, grinning.

Dustin's face turned the color of old dough. He leaned forward and gripped Spike's arm.

"If you weren't my partner, I'd kill you for that word," he said. "Spike shivered. He felt suddenly as though his veins had been filled with ice water."

"Go on," he said awkwardly.

"I'm listenin'."

"Aye. Well, when Peyoti saw what he'd done, he went all to pieces. Old Kane is buried up Red Water canon. No one will ever find him there. Well. . . . This man Gerald Keene is Gerald Kane. He's the nephew of old Kane. . . . That's his name, d'ye see? Gerald Kane is comin' out here to investigate the reported death of his uncle, Did Kane. . . . If the murderer is discovered Peyoti Gregg will hang. . . . Is it gettin' clear to you?"

"Good God," said Spike explosively. "Do you expect me to believe that?"

"I don't care a damn if you believe it or not so long as Peyoti believes it. Get me so far?"

"I sure do. . . . Spike glanced admiringly at his partner. This would be a master stroke indeed. If Peyoti Gregg, the well-known 'shop-head' could be got to kill Gerald Keene then Keene's share of the Hour-glass would pass to old Joe Carr, and they held old Joe Carr's note for the Hour-glass. . . . where Kane and Dustin had located the mine."

"By God," he said, "you've hit it. But I swear I don't see how you can pull it off."

"You don't have to see. Go on out of here and tell Peyoti that I want to see him at once. Not a word more than that."

Spike went and ten minutes later Peyoti dropped his hat at the door and came shambling into the room. Dustin looked up from some pretended work at the desk.

"It's a good thing for you, Peyoti, that you came at once," he said. "I'm sorry for you, but I don't see how

I can help you. . . . Remember old Dad Kane, Peyoti?"

"For heaven's sake lay off that, Mist' Sam. . . . The man's arm flung up to guard before his eyes and he shivered as though with an ague. 'I ain't slept a wink since I came back. . . . I'd never git sleep if it wasn't fer . . . fer . . . you know what. . . . He tugged a red-and-green cigarette packet from his pocket."

Dustin matched it from him, tore out four cigarettes and gave them to him, and thrust the package into his desk drawer.

"You damned fool. I've told you a dozen times not to get any of these things except what I give you. I give you your full allowance. Just suppose you take too many of these and talk too much. You know what'll happen. You'll be hung as high as Haman."

Peyoti looked dazed. He had looked for a coin and perhaps an errand and he found a threat that he only half understood. He could not guess what was coming, but he knew that he was on the verge of being violently ill. His stomach was queasy. Man, born of woman, cannot smoke unlimited Peyoti cigarettes to kill the memory of a murder that he never committed and still carry himself like a free man. Peyoti squirmed and Dustin gladly noted it.

"I wish I could help you, Peyoti," he said. "But I don't see how I can."

"What's the matter, boss? What's come up?"

"You know damned well what you did. The question is how're you goin' to keep the world from knowin' what you did, too? I'll hate to see you at the end of a rope, Peyoti. You remember Wills?"

Peyoti gulped audibly and sat down. He remembered Wills very well. Caught while in the very act of changing brands on two horses of the Cross Keys stock, Wills had been given two hours to confess his sins. The time had been wholly insufficient and Wills had gone to some questionable place with a lariat about his neck. Peyoti remembered seeing the wind under a sign that read 'yellow-hammer' and two woodpeckers hammered cheerfully above him. He had never forgotten it and Dustin knew it.

"You see, Peyoti, it's this way. When you killed old man Kane, we thought he was just an old desert rat who had no friends. It seems we were wrong. He had some friends back East. He had a nephew. His name is Gerald Kane or Keene or something like that. Anyhow old man Kane must have written him that he ain't no good mine. This nephew, telegraphed that he will be out here to-morrow night to look up his uncle. You know what that means. Every one knows that I've been grub-stakin' old man Kane. They'll come me if it's all right. If they ask me any questions, Peyoti, you can see that I've got to 'em the truth. I'm willin' to help you all I can, Peyoti, but not to the extent of perjury. Of course I know just about how it was. . . . You smoked that damned stuff that I've told you to leave alone. You had a bad dream and you got into a doped row with old man Kane and killed him."

Peyoti shuddered. "Mexico ain't so fur away," he muttered.

"They'd get you there. They extradite for murder in Mexico. I guess you've got to pay the bill, Peyoti. . . . If this man Gerald Kane turns up. . . ."

He had suggested the answer even to a drug-daddened brain.

Mothers' Pensions

British Columbia To Increase Allowance By A Small Amount

Recipients of mothers' pensions will have their allowances increased by a small amount. It was stated in the British Columbia Legislature by Mrs. Paul Smith (Lib., Vancouver-Burrard). It will be the first step in an upward scale and will be put into effect during the next six months, she said. The government had also decided that mothers with only one child should be eligible for pensions. Although the act provided for such eligibility the practice for years had been to exclude them from benefits.

Ask your doctor about this. And be sure you get ASPIRIN when you buy. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

1. Take 2 Aspirin tablets.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 Aspirin tablets in a third of a glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

Camel May Be Displaced

And now the motor car may displace the camel. By use of 16-ton transport units, recently tested over 10,000 miles in northern Australia, it appears adequate and cheap service can be provided in undeveloped areas, combined with economical road construction. The unit reduced the rates to the level of those charged for hauling by camel teams.

Little Kip for This Week

"I have learned in whatsoever state I am therein to be content." Phillips 4:2.

No longer forward or behind I look in hope or fear. But grateful, take the good I find. The best of now and here.

—J. G. Whittier.

If we wish to gain contentment we might try such rules as these: Allow thyself to complain of nothing, not even the weather.

Never picture thyself to thyself under any circumstances in which thou art not.

Never compare thine own lot with that of another.

Never dwell on the morrow. Remember it is God's, not thine. The heaviest part of sorrow is often to look forward to it. "The Lord will provide."

Never allow thyself to dwell on the wish that things were otherwise than they were. God Almighty loves thee better and more wisely than thou dost thyself.

An Unusual Accident

A strange accident occurred when a motorist approaching a bridge near Perthshire, Worcestershire, was held up by two stationary motor cyclists. Their machines stood close together in the road. They leaned towards each other, their heads touching. When the motorist alighted to complain, he found both unconscious. They had collided and their machines had interlocked. They were taken to hospital with bad injuries.

MOTORISTS RESENT INEQUALITY IN LEVYING OF TAXES.

Taxation of motorists in Alberta has risen on an ever-increasing scale until, in the short space of four years, for instance, in gasoline tax alone, their contribution to the Provincial Treasury has increased from 8.6 per cent of the total general revenue to 11.4 per cent, a jump of approximately 50 per cent, according to a study of provincial public accounts.

In 1929 gasoline taxes represented 8.6 p.c. of the total provincial revenue; in 1930, 11.6 per cent; 1931, 12.4 p.c.; 1932, 11.4 p.c.; while figures for 1934 are expected to show another increase. During this same period the percentage of registrations has decreased from 13.9 p.c. to 10.9 p.c.

Official statistics show only 11.4 per cent of the people of Alberta own motor cars, and this relatively small percentage paid $19.08 out of every $100 collected by the Provincial Treasurer in 1933 in two taxes alone—gasoline and registrations—in addition to paying their share of all other imposts, including Dominion customs levies etc. at the time they purchased their machine.

Evidence is gradually accumulating to show that motorists resent this apparent inequality in levying of taxes, and are becoming restive to the point where, eventually, they will demand some relief.

The situation is aggravated, in the opinion of motor club executives, by the fact that, generally speaking, taxes from motorists are not earmarked for the purpose for which they are levied—roads—but are used for general expenditures.

Speakers at the Convention.

Posters are out, announcing the holding of the United Farmer's Nominating Convention—the new date being Sat. March 30, and the place Stony Plain. Among the speakers who will be present is the Hon J E Brownlee, who will, no doubt, give an interesting and comprehensive address on the policies of the present Farmer Government. Mr Brownlee has not been heard in public very much of late, and no doubt will be in fine fettle when he speaks here March 30. Another speaker on this occasion will be Mr Elmer E Roper, editor and publisher of the Alberta Labor News. If the weather is favorable on that day, there should be a big attendance at this convention.

SPORTING NOTES OF LOCAL DOINGS.

"One of the best games of the season," was the verdict of the hockey fans who witnessed the contest here Friday night between the Royal Canadians of Edmonton and our S.P.H's. Altho the locals won by a score of 5 to 1, they had to play to get 'em, as the visitors never at any time are easy pickins, as our boys have found out. Goalie Foerster was in his best form, and sure kept a lot of 'em out, only one single all thru the performance getting by him into the net. Philip Enders refereed the game in a satisfactory manner.

Sunday afternoon the Seniors played a team from Roch fort, the locals winning by a score of 3 to 1—the scorers for Stony being P Gannon, L Miller, S Grant. Mr Clarence Lory refereed the game. The attendance at this game was small—the stormy weather keeping the usual crowd of fans.

The Riverdales, from Edmonton, failed to keep their engagement here on Sunday night with S.P.H's.

The Parliamentary Show.

(By J. S. Cowper.)

The most interesting, tho not the most important, news from Parliament Hill last week was that the Government had engaged Major C H Douglas of Social Credit fame, for a fee of $5000 to come to Alberta for three weeks to act as its adviser on "reconstruction."

The Major was here a year ago. At that time he received a fee of $1250 for appearing before the Committee of the House and expounding his theories. He left the House hopelessly divided and more or less "up in the air" at the time.

The Major's fee is payable in advance in coin of the realm. He is not taking any chances on being paid in Social dividends. Wm Aberhart of Calgary, who received only $64.30 as expense money for his appearance before the House Committee last year, may have a chance to test his Plan against the Major's, if the latter will include platform discussions in his retainer.

Some Day!

Alliance Times: We hear of a Local which had accumulated about $16 for the purpose of making a donation to UFA head office funds. After listening to Norman Priestly on the air, the members decided to send the whole amount to Aberhart instead. We think a great deal of the UFA and have repeatedly warned it against the intrusion of ecclesiastical humbug. Some day it will believe us.

"Good Dance, Lean Eats."

In giving an account of a dance to the Grand Prairie Tribune, the Beaman correspondent says:

"We might add that the lunch arrangement has been working fine all winter, but for some reason was a little on the lean side Friday night. The arrangement has been: Gent's 25c; ladies bring cake or sandwiches. And, as announced before, if you don't want to eat, don't bring anything."
